Gospel

Then Jesus told his disciples, "If any want to become my followers, let them deny themselves and take up their cross and follow me. For those who want to save their life will lose it, and those who lose their life for my sake will find it. For what will it profit them if they gain the whole world but forfeit their life? Or what will they give in return for their life? "For the Son of Man is to come with his angels in the glory of his Father, and then he will repay everyone for what has been done.

Matthew 16:24-27

For prayer and action ...

In the end, not much matters except love.

You are right to care about work, health, community. How good it is to know, then, that love is not something to be kept tucked away in our homes or bedrooms. Those other areas of our lives are transformed when we bring to them a lively sense of spaciousness and tolerance. And allow them to bring to us the richness of interest, connectedness, enthusiasm and energy that speak of love.

You are right to think of the needs of the starving and dispossessed. Or of those who suffer from mass injustice they have not caused. But couldn't their lives also be different and less anguished if we individually and collectively believed in love and dared to live that belief openly and flamboyantly?

Live believing in the value of all that lives.

Supporting Transition with Older Australians

Trinity Baptist Church 8A Bedford Square, Colonel Light Gardens
12 September 2017 9:00am - 3:30pm

Event details

Ageing involves so many transitions, some positive and eagerly anticipated, others challenging and unwanted, such as deteriorating health and the ability to care for yourself.

Our health, disability and aged care sectors are shifting from institutionally-directed care models to consumer-directed care models, but many older people don't understand these changes. They present challenges but also opportunities for churches. Four local and international speakers will discuss effective ways to support older Australians with transition in a consumer-directed care environment.

The cost for this seminar is $25 ($20 concession) and includes lunch and refreshments. This is run by the Australian Faith Community Nurses Association and BaptistCare, but may be useful for Uniting Church groups. For more information Contact Anne van Loon Phone 0409 921 337
